Their vision is to assist Australian organisations to be the safest in the world and protect their most important asset – their people. With a legacy spanning over 90 years, they do this by inspiring, educating, informing and engaging Australian business in best practice work health and safety (WHS) and risk management.

The NSCA Foundation enables professional development through in-person events, webinars, latest updates on industry developments through the Safe-T-Bulletin and the National Safety magazine, networking opportunities, and online resources.

APOSHO has been hosted twice by the NSCA Foundation with these both being held in Melbourne at the Melbourne Convention and Exhibition Centre.

The NSCA Foundation hosts the National Safety Awards of Excellence, Australia's longest running and independent awards, recognising outstanding Work Health and Safety initiatives. The awards are open to any Australian operating business, organisation, and alliance or individual in the public or private sector, with a workplace health and safety initiative that complies with one of the nine categories.
